

MORTON'S SONS' SECOND FIRE

THEIR BAKERY AND CANDY KITCHEN WAS BADLY INJURED.

Repairs of a Former Fire Had Just Been Completed—Big Crowd
Materially Hindered Work of Firemen.

The bakery and candy kitchen of James Morton's Sons at 1024 Main street was seriously damaged by a fire that broke out at 7 o'clock last evening in the backroom on the second floor and burned fiercely for half an hour. The fire was discovered by L. C. Kyles, a salesman in the candy house on the first floor, and was burning in a big lot of extra chairs that were stacked about fifteen feet from the back oven. Just about the time he discovered the fire, the firemen arrived from the brick side wall. The dumb waiter shaft to the candy factory that occupied the third floor of both 1022 and 1024 and the entire establishment was filled with dense smoke that poured out in great clouds.

It was necessary to flood the upper floors to stop the fire and the great volume of water that was used ran down through the ceilings, doing more damage than the fire. The interior of the bakery was badly damaged and the stock and supplies in the upper floor practically ruined by the water and smoke.

Mr. Morton said after the fire that he had insurance amounting to $5,000 on the entire stock and fixtures. The sales stock on the first floor was saved by the spreading of tarpaulins and but little of it will be damaged. He could not estimate his loss, he said.

The stock of the Super Shoe Company at 1022 Main street was damaged several hundred dollars by water. It is well insured. The laboratory of Dr. S. G. Moser, dentist, on the second floor of 1024, was flooded and the great volume of water that was used ran down through the ceilings, doing more damage than the fire. The interior of the bakery was badly damaged and the stock and supplies in the upper floor practically ruined by the water and smoke.

The work of the fire department was done under the direction of Chief Engineer. The crowd of people that gathered in the street and crowded up about the place so the firemen were unable to get the fire out until it was too late. The attention of the officers was given to anything else.

This is the second fire James Morton's Sons have had in a month. A week before Christmas they suffered a loss of $300 on stock, and had only last week completed the repairs. They were unable to tell how the fire originated. William Miller, the foreman of the bakery, says everything was safely stored for when he left at 6:30, and no fire was had been near the place where it broke out.

LADY TATTON SYKES, AN ENGLISH "PLUNGER."

New York, Jan. 18.—Lady Tatton Sykes, who stands charged by her husband, the rich Yorkshire baronet, with having forged his signature to notes for $20,000, has been accused on previous occasions of securing large sums of money through the criminal use of his lordship's name.

The revelations regarding her lordship's career as a high gambler have amazed all England. The baronet is 77 years old and her lordship is 43. She is known as Monte Carlo, and people who make a profession of betting on horse races have seen her money. She plays barcarat. She likes to buy $50,000 worth of diamonds and is "eccentric" in many more ways.

When Lord Sykes married her she was a popular woman. The third Duke of Portland was her great-grandfather. The present duke is her cousin. Her aged husband has a rent roll of $50,000. Lady Sykes wanted money to play cards and the baronet gave her plenty of it. More than a year ago she went to Daniel Jay, a money lender, and presented notes purporting to be signed by the baronet for $10,000. The notes came due the first of last year, but Lady Sykes brought a letter to Jay from the baronet promising to pay in March.

March came, but no money. The baronet repudiated the whole transaction. Jay brought suit, and it is now being tried before Lord Chief Justice Russell. When the baronet took the stand he testified that his wife had forged his name to notes and letters. Charges. She says "her poor, dear old man" is the stingiest baronet under heaven. The English banker at Monaco testified that he had seen the baronet sign checks in the gaming rooms of Monte Carlo and that he had seen the baronet sign other documents and forged two hours of the baronet's signature. The baronet swore they were forged.

This lively noblewoman paid three visits to this country. She was received with open arms by New York's best society, but her manners were too astounding even for the four hundred, and on her third visit she was left alone.

The result of the Jay suit means much for the erratic Lady Sykes. If found guilty of forgery she will have to doff her gowns and don the felon's garb.

BOUND BY CRIMSON TIES.

AFFINITY BETWEEN MEN WHO HAVE SHED HUMAN BLOOD.

Trial of Thomas Clark, Murderer, Attracts Many Manlymen to the Criminal Court—This Butcher
Pretends Insanity.

A strange thing about murder trials is the attraction they have for men who have shed the blood of other people. Whenever a trial for murder is on in the criminal court these men who have cut or shot or beaten other people flock to hear it, and they always try to get front seats where they can hear every word of the evidence.

This fact is so well known to the old officers of the criminal court that when the hearing of evidence in the murder trial of Thomas Clark began yesterday a crowd of men who had been waiting outside for a long time, looking out at the crowd that packed the courtroom.

"Here's the same old gang; look at 'em." The reporter stood up and looked over the room full of faces. On a front seat was a white man who had killed three people. He was sitting beside a negro woman who was suspected of a murder three years ago but was never arrested for it. Scattered all through the crowd were men who had been often in prison, out from behind the bars of a jail cell. Half the crowd, at least, was made up of negroes.

Clark sat quietly and almost motionless in his chair all through the morning. He watched the faces of the witnesses and apparently listened to every word of testimony but showed no other signs of interest. His defense is insanity. He is defended by E. L. Snyder and A. E. Fugate.

Mr. Snyder said he would prove that Lizzie Williamson, whom Clark tried to kill, was his wife, that Mary Robinson, whose home Lizzie was staying, had invited her to come to Clark's house and was trying to extort money from Clark and was trying to tell her Lizzie was "This angered Clark so he went to the door, pulled out a knife and killed her."

Mary Robinson, an old colored woman, told the jury that she had seen Clark kill Lizzie Williamson. She said it was 3 o'clock at night when Clark came to her house and asked her to let him in. He burst in and came in. He did not speak a word but stepped to the door of the front room, pulled out a knife and killed Lizzie Williamson.

Mr. Robinson hobbled to and from the witness chair all through the trial. He is a cripple all his life because of the fire that burned his legs.

Clark looked at Clark reproachfully and said: "Isa de las" one I thought, Tom Clark would shoot me in the back of the head."

Eugene Jenkins and William Lee, negroes, were in the house when Clark did the murder and they were sitting on the sofa. They were the same as that of Mrs. Robinson.

Dr. Wheeler, deputy coroner, told of the wound that killed Mrs. Hatch. Alice Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Robinson, saw the murder and told the same story about it that had been told by the other witnesses.

Zoe Hughes, of 1214 East Ninth street, said Mrs. Hatch, the woman killed by Clark, was a favorite of Clark's. He had been with her for some time and he had killed her.

Richard and Katie Green testified that after the murder Clark came to their home and asked them to let him stay. They refused, and he went away.

The state closed its case yesterday. The defense will begin today.
